Colors

- Dark mode?
 - No, use light background with dark accents
 - Don't be afraid to go off-white
 - Cream + serif font can look amazing
- Find a "base color", go from there
 - Take inspiration from case, company, competition, or industry
 - Use Coolors

Accent elements

- Generally encompasses wayfinder, logo, and decorative elements
- More fun/upbeat = bright, bubbly, round
- More professional/serious = darker, sharper

Typography

- Use default fonts
- Calibri recommended
- Can use custom fonts in lower-stakes competitions
- To serif or not to serif?

Designing for Apple: Icons

- SF Symbols for everything
- Do not use other icon sets
- Application can be finicky
- Limited choice

Designing for Apple: SF Fonts

➤ SF Pro

- Primary font, subheadings
- “middle” font

➤ SF Pro Display

- Big words/letters/headings
- Large font sizes

➤ SF Compact/Text

- Body, texts, paragraph
- Smaller text

➤ Use Calibri for decks, do not use SF

Glass

Light

Adjust the angle and intensity of the light illuminating your glass frames to change where the highlight appears on the frame's edge.

Refraction

Control the way light bends along the edge of your glass frame. The higher the refraction value, the more your glass frames will distort the elements around them.

Depth

Change how thick your glass material appears to provide a more pronounced lip at the edge of the frame.

Dispersion

Increase dispersion to add a hint of chromatic aberration at the edges of your glass frames. This works best in combination with refraction.

Frost

Adjust the amount of background blur present on your glass frames to help glass elements stand out on busy backgrounds to provide better contrast.

Accessibility

- Use more frosted glass
- Use a darker background
 - Lighter mockups use less glass
- Change glass shade
- Add shadows
